

Do you have an Internal Team Ambassador?

Many families have been touched by the March of Dimes mission. You may know someone where you work whose child has benefited from March of Dimes research or who suffers from a birth defect. You may have a co-worker that has had a premature baby that spent time in a Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) and possibly received surfactant therapy. It could even be someone who is pregnant and knew to take folic acid.

A March for Babies Team Ambassador are children and their families who are visible symbols of the March of Dimes. When a family shares how their lives have been touched by the March of Dimes, volunteers can hear and see the connection between their fundraising efforts, the health of a child they know and the thousands of other children across the nation who benefit from March of Dimes initiatives.

Did you know Ambassador Families are able to:

1. Speak at your team kickoff and other events that are held at your company
2. Share their story with employees through the company newsletter or letters to employees asking them to support your team's efforts
3. Walk with your team at March for Babies
4. Help promote your fundraising events

If you have a family who is your Team Ambassador, please complete the following information and return to the March of Dimes:
